Sixty-Two Years an M.P.

To represent one constituency for sixty-two years in the House of Commons is somewhat of a record. Mr. Charles Pelham Villiers, who is called the "Father of the House of Commons," has represented Wolverhampton for that time without interruption. He recently celebrated his 95th birthday at his London residence, and received the congratulations of a large circle of friends of both political parties. The right honorable gentleman takes a great interest in public affairs and spends much time reading and attending to his correspondence.

The First Man Dressmaker.

As far back as 1730 there was in Paris a man dressmaker, and probably the first of his kind. His name was Rhomberg, and he was the son of a Bavarian peasant from the neighborhood of Munich. He owed his success to his genius for concealing and remedying defects of figure. He drove a beautiful carriage on the boulevard, and had an escutcheon in the shape of a pair of corsets and an open pair of scissors painted on the panel of each door. He left a large fortune to his heirs.

Peanuts in Europe.

Peanuts grow in large quantities on the northwest coast of Africa, but are known there as ground nuts. They are dug up by the natives and bartered with the European traders for merchandise, tobacco, etc., at many places on the Gambia River, and afterward shipped in steamer loads to European ports, principally to Marseilles. The nuts are not roasted for retail sale, as in this country, but crushed and a fine oil extracted, which is valuable

A very sudden death occurred about 6 miles west of this place. A Mr. Johnston was killed by a team of horses running away with him. He only lived a short time after he was found.

Mrs. E. Cowan, who has been laid up with heart disease is some easier and with quiet and care she will soon be around.

Mr. Roney Loyal lost a child on Saturday night by a pea getting lodged in its wind pipe. The funeral took place on Monday.

Mr. Samuel Turkington lost a child a few weeks ago and he has another very sick at the present time.

Mrs. Pomroy's little daughter is not so well and fears are now entertained of her recovery. The child has been so long sick she is much reduced in strength.

Mr. Bruce Richardson, who has been very sick, is now on the mend and on a fair way to recovery.

Mr. Parks' son is not as well as last week. Rumor has it we are to have a concert by the teachers of the league in the near future.

There will be a concert in the town hall, Tamworth, to aid our library, procure magazines and papers etc., on May 1st. A good programme will be given.

The sugar season is about over and farmers are getting ready for spring work.

Miss Addie Coxall is very sick. She had a severe attack of la grippe and has suffered a relapse.

SANDHURST AND CONWAY.

Mr. Robert Wright and sister Maggie spent Saturday and Sunday at Napanee visiting friends.

Mr. Charles Wright has a very sick cow but it is improving under the skillful treatment of Dr. J. Phippen.

Messrs. Hill and Shorey have returned to their factory at Napanee to take the second course in cheese making under the instruction of Professor W. E. Hemstreet.

Mr. John T. Hill, of Napanee, drove out to his home at Conway on Sunday.

Miss Margaret Bartlett, of Napanee, returned home on Sunday after spending a month the guest of Miss Minnie Hill.

Miss Mary Cadman spent Saturday and Sunday visiting her sister Mrs. W. H. McDonald.

Mr. Sidney Shorey, of this place spent Sunday at Mr. W. N. Crabbe's, Chambers.

The new store is about completed and will be run by Mr. James Hill—look out for cheap groceries and dry goods as Jim says he is going to sell to suit the times.

Mr. W. McDonald intends moving to Clarksmill's corners next week where he will start a general store.

The base ball club have commenced to practise for this season and will soon be ready for challenges.

Mr. James Hill spent a couple of days this week the guest of Annie Wright.

Mr. John Phippen was in Kingston on Thursday to market.

Mr. T. Gurren is talking of purchasing a bike this summer.

Mr. W. Galt spent Sunday at Hayburn. The Beaver correspondent from this place seems to take great delight in making out a sick list whether there is anybody sick or not—it is all the same to them.

Mr. W. E. Brown and Miss B. Wakeford have secured situations in the establishment run by Young Bros.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Young spent Sunday at her mother's, Mrs. Phippen, of Conway. Miss Nellie Downey spent Sunday the guest of the Misses Wright.

Mr. D. Morrow intends erecting a new barn this spring.

Miss Frette and Miss Urquhart, of Hawley, are visiting at Sandhurst this week.

Mr. Martin Hill has returned home from Brockville to spend the summer on the

Let this be your first work in the spring. One-quarter acre of good land set with varieties and well cultivated, should produce from 20 to 40 bushels of nice berries every season. This would give an ordinary family fresh berries every day in the season and a liberal supply of canned, preserved or dried during the entire year. Plants for such a garden may be purchased direct from a reliable grower for $10 or $15, and should include the following varieties: 50 strawberry plants, early, medium and late; 50 blackberry plants, early and late; 50 red berry plants, early and late; 75 raspberry plants, early and late; 18 currants, red and white, early and late; 2 gooseberry, early and late; 18 grapes, three varieties, early. Multiply this list by four for one acre, or by 20 for five acres, and you have the right proportion for a continuous supply of different varieties for market purposes. Good berries may be grown on any soil, sandy, clay, muck, loam, gravel, or a combination of each, provided the same be highly fertilized, well drained and thoroughly cultivated. Early fruits are usually most desirable, and light soils with southern exposure are best adapted for that purpose. Light soils, however, require heavy fertilizing, more mulch in summer are more liable to injury by drought and produce lighter crops. Clay soil must be well drained, is more difficult to prepare, mature later crops and not so favorable for winter protection. The ideal berry ground should be (1) a rich sandy loam with clay subsoil; (2) a dark loam or gravelly loam mixed with clay, and a clay subsoil, all having a southerly or eastern slope. Any of these mixed soils will make good berry gardens by applying good barnyard manure, which contains all the essential elements required. When such manure cannot be obtained then commercial fertilizers rich in nitrogen and potash should be applied. Avoid low, flat land and unweeded underdrainage. It is usually cold, late and more subject to frosts. Avoid steep hillsides as being more subject to drought and wash of soil by severe rains.

Imitation Cat-Skin Goods.

A good deal of interest has been aroused in England by a display of photo-frames, blotting paper pads and papereries, made up of material colored in extract imitation of the skin of a calf, as taken from the animal and before being scraped, the red patches of hair on a white ground showing up in most natural style. These goods represent the novelty of the season in fancy stationery and photo-frames.

A Black Dye for Wood.

First sponge the wood with a solution of chlorhydrate of aniline in water, to which a small quantity of copper chloride is added. Allow it to dry, and go over it with a solution of potassium bichromate. Repeat the process twice or thrice, and the wood will take a fine black color, unaffected by light or chemicals.

THE EVILS OF PROTECTION.
"A demonstrated wrong is always defended and its continuance supported on the plea that to do justice to the many would inflict a loss on the few."

One feature of the tariff enquiry should be noted by our wage earners and farmers, viz: that the manufacturers with one or two honorable exceptions, urged that the duty on their raw materials be removed or reduced, and that on their finished product increased, or the present duty maintained.

A moment's thought will convince anyone that the finished product of every producer, is the raw material of some other producer. The skill of the mechanic for instance is his finished product, which he sells to the manufacturer, to whom it is the most important raw material. On the other hand the finished product of the manufacturer is the raw material of the workmen.

These obvious facts illustrate the injustice of the manufacturer's demand for free raw material, the most important being labor, which cannot be protected, whilst they want the raw material of the wage-earners, viz: his house or all that enters into its construction, his clothes, his food, his furniture etc., highly protected, these things being the finished product of the manufacturer.

In countries where governments act on the advice of their manufacturers in this regard, (protectionist countries) we find distress amongst the wage-earners deepening, and in those countries where the raw material of the wage-earners and farmers is untaxed (free trade countries) their (or what is known as a trade depression) occur in protected countries in the absence of all known causes such as war, pestilence or a failure of crops, there is strong grounds for believing that it is the shrinkage in demand which protection involves creates the trouble. Protective duties, certainly, exalt prices which ascertain checks demand.

Now whatever may be the cause of a trade depression there is but one way in which it can manifest itself, and that is in a partial cessation of effective demand, (people with money or goods to exchange for what they demand.) The curtailment in demand that protection entails, probably explains why it is that the trade depressions that have swept the world during the last twenty odd years have invariably developed first in, and endured longest in, the most highly protected countries. It is during these periods of depression that the combine is usually formed, which, if successful, saves the manufacturer for a time by further distressing their suffering fellow countrymen, in again exalting prices, the object of all combines. The longer the manufacturers bolster themselves up by such schemes, the higher must go the price, the smaller will be the demand, the greater the number of the unemployed, the wider and keener the distress throughout the community and consequently the more disastrous the inevitable crash.

We, in Canada, are not very deeply in the mire yet: now that we have the opportunity, let us give our vigorous young country a chance and abolish this horrible aggression which the enemies of liberty have caused to be called protection, which in a thousand ways must undermine the moral fibre of our people, and inevitably bring ruin to many of those for whose supposed benefit it is proposed to perpetuate it, viz: the manufacturers.

If this iniquity is not strong enough, let us abolish it for the poverty and suffering it necessarily entails on the wage-earners and farmers, and the crime it must induce amongst those who constitute the fringe of the skirts of our civilization, who have not inaptly been called "the submerged tenth," and whose numbers by the way are increasing at a greater ratio than population in all protectionist countries, and decreasing in free trade countries.

It should always be remembered that to many of these poor people of the "submerged tenth" a slight rise in the cost of living means famine, crime or death.

It is only when we see men of wealth with cunningly laid schemes to exalt prices urging their case before the tariff commission—schemes, that if successful, must inevitably take the last cent from many of the poor people of the "submerged tenth," thus driving them to famine, crime or death, that the depth of degradation to which protection leads those who imagine themselves financially benefitted by its continuance, may be fathomed.

Ottawa, 7/4/97.

If farmers would examine the effect the duties on food stuffs would have on themselves if these duties ever become effective, they would be the first to insist on their abolition. For many years to come our principal exports will necessarily consist of food stuffs, consequently these duties can be effective only in case of a serious failure of crops.

If such a calamity befel us, the price of food stuffs would be exalted to the full extent of the duty, plus the per centage of profit dealers charge on their outlay for duty. It is estimated that for every dollar the dealer pays in duty, the consumer pays one dollar and fifty cents. The millers and the few

Man and Woman Both Fickle.
"Of course there's romance in my life," assented Fromer, when it was intimated that there was nothing of sentiment in his composition.
"I felt when I saw her, 'tis she or none on earth," is what Schiller wrote in his 'Bride of Messina.' That is exactly what I felt when I met the woman of my romance. Nobody can describe a woman. You can rave about her classic features, her speaking eyes, her neck like a pillar of marble touched with life, the graceful psyche knot that she twists to a crown of beauty and all that kind of rant; but after it is done you can meet the woman and not know her. When I can picture a soul I'll go into the business.
"Of course I was young when I met her. Otherwise I would have shown some slight imitation of sense and rendered by degrees. Love at first sight is not uncommon, but it is restrained by a sense of propriety, by pride or by some other modifying influence. Every force in my being was co-operative. All impelled me to fall in love. There was no check, and I fell to the very depths.
"She refused me very prettily and very promptly. I asked her if I could cherish no hope, intimating that to deprive me of hope would be immediately fatal. She gave me a very scant allowance. Then I went away to win a fortune that I might lay it at her feet as an additional inducement. In four years I returned. The woman was there, just as I had left her, but not my ideal. While I was trying for moral strength enough to recall my vows, she was mustering courage sufficient to tell me she was engaged to another man. She spoke first. Then I was so mad at the other fellow, whom I should have blessed, that I insisted she had broken my heart."

BELLEVILLE.
TRUE TO THE LAST.
One of the best known and most popular shoemakers in Belleville gives evidence in an important matter.
Mr. William Kemp, the well-known shoemaker, says: "My wife has been a great sufferer from nervous and heart troubles for the last 20 years. She was in a very bad state, had terrible pains in the region of the heart extending up over her shoulders, and she was so nervous that she couldn't sleep at night. Her appetite was almost gone, and although she had taken many kinds of medicine both from doctors and proprietary articles, she received no relief from them. Seeing an advertisement of Milburn's heart and nerve pills, I got a box with the faint hope that they would help my wife. She has taken two boxes and the results are something wonderful. The pains have all but left her. Her appetite is good. She sleeps well, which is one of the greatest blessings she has experienced, and she has improved in every way.
"I can recommend them very highly and feel that no other remedy could have achieved a result in so short a time. (Signed), William Kemp, Belleville, Ont."

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, APRIL 16th, 1897.

This is not an opportune year for war. It would rob the Queen's jubilee of its flavor.

The new tariff will be introduced on April 22nd. The Opposition will then formulate their policy.

Mr. McMullen is in evidence. His bill to appoint a board of three to inspect the inside and outside civil service and dispense with all unnecessary officers has been introduced in the House of Commons. Mac is an economist who believes in economy.

A MEMBER of Parliament from his seat in the House can slander and lie, at will, if he is so disposed and he cannot be brought to book for it. Mr. McInnes, the young Liberal member from Vancouver, abused this privilege last week by making charges against The Toronto Globe that he dare not give utterance to outside of Parliament. The Globe was perfectly justified in replying to the young man from the West in the vigorous, plain and unmistakable language it did. The Globe is synonymous for all that is fair, honest and courteous in Canadian journalism and the course it has pursued for the past few years has won it the esteem and admiration of its friends and opponents. Any man who refers to it as a "nickle-in-the-slot machine, a trimmer, etc.," lays himself takes the wage-earners after the introduction of protection in any country, arises from the fact that such a system exalts prices and lowers wages, for contrary to the popular notion wages rise as prices fall, and, conversely, wages fall as prices rise. In Japan since 1866, the year she abolished protection, prices have steadily fallen and wages have as steadily risen, the same is true of Great Britain and other free trade countries where the full force of the cheapening effects of modern improvements is felt.

In Canada and the United States on the other hand under protection prices have in a measure been maintained and wages have fallen, or to put it in another form, the benefits that under natural conditions should accrue to the mass of the people, from the cheapening effect of modern improvements, have in a great measure been nullified by high protective duties and the combine protection forces into existence.

This seeming anomaly of rising wages as a result of lowering prices admits of an easy explanation. Our daily experiences teaches that a rise in the price of any article, checks consumption. This check to consumption or demand will be very marked if the rise in price is artificial, as when it is obtained through the influence of a combine, for such schemes breed antagonism amongst consumers causing them to economise to the utmost limit.

The decreased quantity demanded reduces the number of men required to produce and distribute it. This necessarily checks the demand for labourers all along the line of production, construction and distribution, from the farm, forest, mine, factory warehouse and store, to the door of the consumer. Therefore as a necessary result of a rise in prices many men are thrown out of employment, to compete with their fellow workmen or flee the country.

The last census returns show, that hundreds of thousands of our people left Canada during the first ten years of protection, and no one will deny that protection and the combines exalted prices during that period. This competition amongst the workmen reduces wages, for wages do not depend on prices, but upon the competition amongst the employers for the services of the unemployed, consequently the greater the number of the unemployed the lower will fall the wages.

Now whilst admitting that protection for a short time after its introduction gives the manufacturers who clamour for it high prices and low wages, this seeming advantage is but a boomerang which ultimately works destruction to themselves, for it is obtained only by reducing the purchasing power of their most extensive and valuable customers, namely, the farmers and the wage earners: these two classes forming as they do the vast majority of every community, the decrease in their purchasing power (that the imposition of protective duties necessarily entails) must soon involve the manufacturers in financial distress.

As these periods of financial distress have good crops would under these conditions realize abnormal profits, for the farmers whose crops had failed would be obliged to purchase food for their families and live stock at the exalted prices from these speculators, millers and lucky farmers.

Thus we see these duties on food stuffs can only be effective when the community are suffering under the most awful visitation that can afflict the people of any country, and when in consequence thousands of our wage earners would be out of employment.

The inevitable effect of these duties on food stuffs if ever they become operative would therefore be to deepen the distress amongst the farmers and wage earners whose losses and enforced idleness and consequent poverty compel them to bear the full force of such a calamity as a failure of crops, whilst they, (the duties) would at the expense of these suffering millions enrich that portion of the community whose wealth and good crops, EVEN IN THE ABSENCE OF THESE DUTIES, would enable them to protect themselves against the consequences of such a visitation.

The imposition of such duties are at variance with the "golden rule," the key from which all our laws are supposed to take their tone, and are a disgrace to the statutes of any christian country.

Farmers should insist on their abolition, not only for the injury they must inflict on themselves if ever they become effective, but because they furnish an excuse for the perpetuation of duties on other things that are a daily loss to all who pursue that honourable calling. It should always be remembered that as long as there is a surplus for export, duties levied for protective purposes afford no protection.

BLOOD IS FOUL AND DISEASED.

Paine's Celery Compound the Great Spring Cleanser.

Is your blood impure and poisoned? It is if you have eruptions, blotches, pimples, sores, eczema, salt rheum or erysipelas. With such troubles the blood is fast carrying poison and disease to every part of your system.

To be clean, sound, vigorous and healthy you must use Paine's Celery Compound. Its vitalizing and health-giving properties show at once upon the blood; it is unequalled as a health producer and cleanser.

No bitters, nervines, sarsaparillas or pills can possibly remove the dangers that lurk in your system at this time. For pure, red blood, rosy cheeks and good digestion you need Paine's Celery Compound that has done such a mighty and wonderful work in the past.

Beware of the substitutes that are frequently offered for Paine's Celery Compound—those worthless imitations that are pushed on the unsuspecting for the sake of the large profits they bring the retailer. Insist upon having "Paine's," the kind that makes people well.

The Value of Variety.

The farmer who grows a variety of crops can, if he chooses, select such kinds as will furnish him always something to sell at any time of the year. All the family expenses go on without ceasing, and unless income does also the debts accumulated when there is nothing that can be sold make a heavy load when the few main crops are marketed. The necessity for peddling his products in small dribbles may seem a hardship, but it teaches how little sums of money accumulate if they are saved, which is a much better lesson than that of learning how fast they add up when they are carelessly spent.

or thoroughly rotted stable manure can be used as fertilizers, taking pains to work it thoroughly in with the soil. There is little danger of getting the soil too rich.

It is important that the seed be sown early. Securing the seed and manuring of the land should be done in good season, so that at the first favorable opportunity in the spring the seed can be sown. Have the soil as fine as possible when the seed is sown in order to secure a good germination of the seed and a vigorous start of the plants to grow. Be sure that the seed is of good quality. If the seedling is to be done by hand, work out the rows about eight inches apart and make the drills about one inch deep. Sow the seeds as early as possible, two or three seeds to the inch. It is quite an item to get the seed distributed evenly in the drills.

The advantage in using the drill is that the seed can be sown and covered more evenly with less work.

Some growers, in order to get the plants started earlier and to some extent at least lessen the work of keeping the crop clean at the start, sow the seed thickly in a bed or row, and after they are well up, transplant them into rows where they are to grow.

As when the seed is sown it is important to have the soil in a good tilth. Work out the rows and then lay the rows not over two inches apart. It is better to use plenty of plants and thin out than to have vacant places in the rows.

If the land is not so rich as it should be it will be a good plan to scatter a good dressing of wood ashes or commercial fertilizer over the surface. The onion feeds very near the surface, and the necessary cultivation will work the fertilizer sufficiently into the soil.

A fine, sharp-toothed steel rake is one of the best implements with which to begin the cultivation. Properly used it will thoroughly fine the surface and destroy the weeds. It is important to begin the cultivation as soon as possible, for in this way the weeds will be easier kept down. It will be an exceptional case, however, when hand-weeding will not be necessary. But a careful use of the rake and cultivator in good season will greatly lessen the work of hand-weeding. With this, as with many other crops, it is best to commence in a small way, and increase the acreage after experience has been acquired.—St. Louis Republic.

Value of the Garden.

A garden, properly conducted, will furnish everything to sell every day in the year, and one need never go to town without taking something to barter for his groceries. This is not the result from the usual farm garden, however, for the soil is kept neither sufficiently rich, deep nor well drained.

TO STUDY THE SUN.

Largest Spectroscope in the World Just Completed.

The largest spectroscope in the world has just been completed by Prof. John A. Brashear, the famous instrument maker of Allegheny, Pa. It has been made specially for Dr. Hans Hauswaldt, a wealthy scientist of Magdeburg, Germany, where it will be used in physical research, and it is expected that many important discoveries will be made with its aid. The two most powerful spectroscopes now in use are at the Royal University of Dublin, and the University of Toronto, Canada. These instruments were also made by Prof. Brashear.

The powerful concave grating instrument is 21 feet long, and will require a room about 28 feet square in which to operate it. It is to be used for physical investigations of a very high character and the design and construction were settled upon by Prof. Brashear and Dr. H. Kayser of the University of Bonn.

It is also very probable that Dr. Hauswaldt will have other powerful instruments of research made by Prof. Brashear, as correspondence is now going on in regard to great physical and astronomical instruments that are to be placed in the new laboratory now being equipped by him in Magdeburg. Dr. Hauswaldt has gained considerable fame in Germany by his experiments, and he is sparing nothing in the equipment of his laboratory, which, when complete, will be one of the finest in Europe, and will far excel any in this country.

The grating to be used on the powerful spectroscope has a six-inch aperture, and is ruled with 110,000 lines. So accurately are these lines ruled that there is no difference any greater than three-millionths of an inch between any of them. This instrument is so powerful that where an ordinary spectroscope would show from 100 to 200 lines belonging to the spectrum of iron, it will reveal more than 2000. It used to be considered that a spectroscope that could show the sodium lines double was one of great power. The great instrument to be sent to Germany not only shows each of these lines double, but with the sun low in the meridian, as many as 15 lines may be seen between the sodium lines.

The new spectroscope has its greatest power, however, in the way of photography. The spectrum of the sun has been photographed to a length of over 60 feet, literally crowded with lines from one end to the other. It is so arranged that no matter what part of the spectrum it is desired to photograph the photographic plate is always in focus for every part of the spectrum.

This large instrument is also valuable in making comparisons of anything that may be burning in the sun. We have light that is coming from the

Let's Live Longer!

Why Die a Lingerin' Death of Direful Diabetes?

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURE IT

Other Medicines never touch it.—But Dodd's Pills Infallibly Cure.—Expelling Poison and Pain.—Preserving Sugar and Strength.—Don't Die; Get Well.

Who would not live longer if he could? More men shorten their lives by over-indulgence in food and drink than ever die from starvation. Health can be maintained by eating and drinking just what is good for us—no more, no less.

But most of us don't do that. In health the body expels what it doesn't require, and retains what it needs. In disease either the body doesn't expel the poison or it does not retain what is needed to nourish it. In the disease called DIABETES the kidneys expel sugar. Its presence can be detected in the urine. The body needs sugar. In DIABETES the sufferer dies a lingering death.

Until recently DIABETES was supposed to be incurable. The science of to-day says that DIABETES may be cured. The kidneys may be restored to healthy action. Sugar may be retained in the system. Instead of filtering out the good that is in the food the kidneys may be made to filter out the poison.

With Poison goes Pain. With Sugar stays Strength.

DIABETES disappears like magic before DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Other medicines never touch it. That's the difference. If you have DIABETES get cured quickly. Don't bother with medicines that do not cure. Many will stand up to be counted among those who have been cured of DIABETES by taking DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mr. Fred Stokes, Barrie, Ont., says:—"I have been promptly restored to health by a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Diabetes had reduced my weight forty-five pounds, which I have regained."

Mr. D. Roblin, Bandmaster, Allandale, Ont., says:—"Could for years get no relief for Diabetes which it seemed would end my days. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured me."

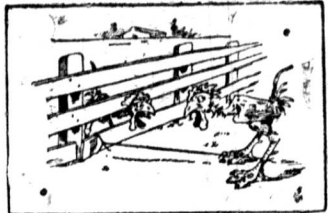

Mr. Chas. Gilchrist, Port Hope, Ont., says:—"For ten years a victim of Diabetes. Suffered fearfully, especially in passing water. My cure has resulted from taking a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

THE RESULT OF AN AT-TACK OF LA GRIPPE AND PNEUMONIA.

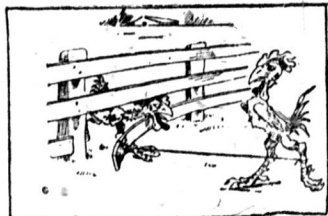

The Strange Case of Mr. James Owen, of Johnville—Doctors Told Him His Lungs Were Affected and He Could Not Recover—Now in Good Health.

From the Sherbrooke Gazette.

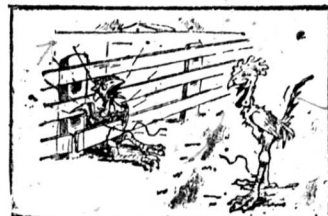

When a man faces what medical authorities tell him is certain death, and regains health and strength, he is naturally grateful to the medicine that has restored him. Such a man is Mr. James Owen, one of the best known farmers in the vicinity of Johnville, Que. Mr. Owen tells his story of shattered health and renewed strength as follows:—"On the 17th of December, 1894, I was attacked with la grippe. A week later the trouble developed into pneumonia in its worst form, and I did not leave my bed until the first of March, 1895, and then I was so weak that I was unable to walk alone. All winter my life hung in the balance. Summer came, and I was still weak and feeble, though with the warm weather I gained a little strength. I had, however, but very little power in my legs, and I

Completely Outgeneraled.

"I've heard a good deal about coercion," said the man with a heavy mustache and a big gold watch chain, as he leaned over the desk of a Washington hotel. "But it's my opinion that the public in general don't know what coercion is. Just wait till you get women in politics; then you'll find out something about it!"

"Have you ever had any experience with women in politics?" inquired the clerk.

"Not with women in politics. But I've just had experience with a woman in business, which shows how quick the sex is in recognizing an advantage and how heartless it can be in making use of it. I run a dime museum. One of my chief attractions is a bearded lady. About two weeks ago her husband came to me and said that she wanted some new costumes; that she was tired of trying to keep up appearances with her old ones. I just laughed at him; but he assured me that she was in earnest. I told him to tell his wife that we weren't paying her milliner's bills. He went away, and came back with the message that she wasn't going to be put off; that she wanted three new dresses, and that she wanted 'em made by the most expensive modiste in town. 'What'll she do if she doesn't get 'em?' I asked. 'She's awfully set in her own way,' he answered; 'I shouldn't be surprised if she resigned right off.' I laughed at him again and told him that I had a contract with her for the season, which it would cost her more to break than she could earn in six months."

"That ought to have settled it," the clerk remarked.

"It didn't, though. In less than ten minutes he came back to my office on a run. 'You've got to compromise, somehow,' he said. 'You've always been a friend of mine, and I don't want to see you get the worst of it.' 'She can't get around that contract,' I answered, beginning to feel a little apprehensive. 'She isn't going to try to. She says she'll stay her time out and appear every afternoon and night as she agreed to. But when I left she had her things on, and you'll have to run if you want to catch her; by this time she's half way to the barber shop. She's going to get shaved.'—Washington Star.

our plate the center of the sun.
"A bar is now placed over this part of the plate which has received the impression of the solar spectrum, and now we turn on an electric light, in which we have placed a small piece of pure calcium. In a very brief time the spectrum of the calcium is photographed above and below the spectrum that came from the sun. The plate is now developed, and here we have a picture of the solar spectrum, running as a narrow strip between the photograph of the metal we have taken. We can see at once the coincidence of the lines of the metal with any lines that may be in the sun. If the lines are in absolute coincidence, we may infer from the law of probabilities, which increases as the lines increase, that the metal we have burned in our electric arc is burning in the great fire of the sun.

"Many hundreds of these photographs have been taken, and we are now almost as certain of the elements that are burning in our great luminary as those that we burn in the furnaces of the metallurgists. So it is with the gases and, indeed, all the chemical elements. Yet, strange to say, while we here on earth recognize oxygen as the great supporter of combustion, the most careful researchers with the spectroscopic have failed to show the existence of oxygen in the sun. I have in my library an elaborate little manual giving Prof. Draper's scientific reasons and proofs that oxygen is burning in the sun, but it has been strongly proved the opposite.

"Extraordinary care has been taken to make the instrument as absolutely perfect as is possible for human hands. The German physicists are the most exacting scientists in the world, and their tests of the great spectroscopic will be most rigorous. Dr. Hauswaldt has established one of the finest laboratories of its kind in the world, and he has associated with him in his work the best German physicists of the day. He intends, I understand, to devote his fortune and the rest of his days in making advanced researches. His laboratory now far exceeds those in this country, and the instruments he is talking of adding to the equipment will make it even more admirable. I look for important discoveries in physical science from the famous little town. The circumstances and surroundings certainly favor it.

"It has been my great regret that I have been unable to photograph the instrument just made. I have tried, but it is so large that some part of it is always placed out of focus in an exaggerated fashion. A camera would have to be placed 50 feet away to get any results at all, and then they would be very unsatisfactory. I have always had to be satisfied with a mere collection of the instruments made."—New York Herald.

Board Without Lodging.

Great and prominent people in all probability dislike to be ridiculed and lampooned as much at the present day as their ancestors ever did, but the penalty for the offender, provided he keep himself within bounds, can hardly be more than the disfavor of the object of his ridicule, instead of being really serious, as it too often was one or two centuries ago.

The severest wit of his time, Voltaire, was more than once imprisoned in the Bastille for having directed his satire against the powers that were. His first incarceration for such a offense was in 1717, when he levelled a biting set of verses, and later a satirical composition in Latin, against the regent, the Duke of Orleans.

The justly incensed regent ordered him to be taken to the Bastille, but forgetting his insult to the Bastille, immediately, he left the wretched Voltaire in prison for eleven months.

When the poet was remembered and released, the generous duke, unmindful of anything save the tedious imprisonment his lampooner had suffered, sent for him and granted him a pension of four hundred dollars a year, to soothe his wounded feelings.

Voltaire accepted the gift with as much witty grace as gratitude.

"Monsieur," he said, "I must humbly thank your royal highness for continuing to charge yourself with the expense of my board, but I beg you never again to trouble yourself about my lodging."

Handling Barrels.

The usual storage place for apples is in the cellar. The barrels then have to be carried up the roll-way by two men—a matter of no little difficulty when the roll-away is narrow as is usually the case. A plan is shown in the cut by which the barrels of apples are carried to the surface with but little lifting, and without jarring the fruit. The diagram tells its own story, except that the triangular truck that is mounted on two rollers is represented larger than need be, thus making it higher than is actually necessary. The rollers run on a wide plank that rests on the edge of the stair treads. The same arrangement will be found equally serviceable in putting apples into the cellar in the fall, and for use with vegetables, etc.

A Good Word for the Mole.

The mole is not such a great enemy of the gardener as many suppose. It lives largely upon worms and grubs.

This Seems to be Justified

We have a poor opinion of the man who will market all his best fruit, and leave only the worst for his family.

The Thoroughbred Potato.

Since the recent description of the thoroughbred potato appeared, with Mr. T. B. Terry's great record, we have been the recipient of some other records made last year, which put Mr. Terry's experience somewhat in the shade.

Mr. W. J. Kemish of, 383 Sorauren avenue, Toronto, the noted Canadian writer for Farm and Fireside, had a most unusual experience while on his Indian road place last year. His barrel of Maule thoroughbred potato seed was frosted in coming to Canada, so much so that when it arrived the thaw made the floor run with water. He thought they were goners, but concluded to plant them. He did so, and the result was so astonishing that all the market gardeners in that neighborhood wasted some time in coming to see them. He is enthusiastic in praise of this new potato, and says he never saw in all his long experience anything to equal it.

The Co-operative Farmer reports that Mr. King of Sussex County, New Brunswick, planted one pound of early thoroughbred potatoes, cutting them up small and planting each piece three feet apart. He dug 569 pounds as the crop from this one pound.

Mr. Sword, of Beatrice, Muskoka, who takes so many potato prizes at the Toronto Industrial every year, farmed equally as well. He planted last year one tuber of early thoroughbred and dug in the fall as its product one full barrel.

This potato seems to be the coming murphy.

She Wanted to See and See She Did.

On Wednesday afternoon a large blonde lady—good-looking, too—passed by the messengers who guard the part of the senate wing which is reserved exclusively for the press. As she went by one of the messengers said: "That is private, madam." "Oh, I just want to look out of the window," she replied and walked along. The messenger hurried after her and continued: "But this is private and you are not permitted to go back there." She didn't blink an eyelash, but walked along. "I beg your pardon," said the messenger, coming up with her. "Oh, you can come along with me if you want to," she replied, smiling at him sweetly. "I want to see what is to be seen from this window." And she did.—Washington Post.

Refrictions of a Bachelor.

The more people agree with us the more use we generally have for their opinions.

Some women seem to think they can influence a man in about the same way they shoe chickens.

As soon as a girl gets married all the other women watch her to see how soon she will begin to age.

When a girl has been told that she has a spiritual face she begins to try to put on a dreamy, rapt expression.

A woman never feels that real joy of shopping till she has mussed another woman's hair at a bargain counter.

A girl will give a man a silver flask with a monogram on it for a Christmas present and then get mad if he uses it.—New York Press.

The Maiten's Atavism.

"It is folly for you, Micky McCloy, to throw your offerings at my feet. Yonder goes the one who has long won my heart from you. He has all the attributes of a man. He wears long pants, and chews as well as smokes."

Make a Good Impression.

"I think," said young Mrs. Tordens, "that we will like the new service."

THE HIGHWAY.

The highway lies, all bare and brown,
A naked line across the down,
Worn by a hundred hurrying feet.
The tide of life along it flows,
And busy commerce comes and goes.
Where once the grass grew green and sweet,
The world's fierce pulses beat.

Well for the highway that it lies
The passage-way of great emprise!
Yet from its dust what voices cry—
Voices of soft green growing things
Trampled and torn from earth which clings
Too closely, unperceiving why
Its darling balms must die!

My heart's a highway, trodden down
By many a traveler of renown—
Grave thought, and burden-bearing deeds,
And strong achievement's envoy fares,
With laughing joys and crowing cares,
Along the road that worldward leads—
Once rank with foolish weeds.

Glad is my heart to hear them pass:
Yet sometimes breathes a low alas!
The tender springing things that grew—
The nursing hopes their feet destroyed,
Sweet ignorant dreams that youth enjoyed—
And blossomed there the long year through—

Would I could have them too!
—LOUISE BETTS EDWARDS.

"DOC'S" STORY.

The "lush" was in the best humor when he joined the evening group at the Alfalfa European hotel. He had enough morning penitence left in him to make him grave and even dignified. At the same time he had started in upon an evening accumulation, and had already become warmed into that friendly mood which helps one to realize that all men are brothers.

"Good evening, gentlemen," said the "lush," and he said it as if it were the preliminary to an oration.

"Good evening, sir; good evening," responded "Doc" Horne, with a slight inclination of the head.

"Sit down and make yourself miserable," said the lightning dentist, who could be entertaining at times.

"Come join the feast of reason and the flow of soul," added the book agent, who could be original, if not entertaining.

"Sure, that's right," added the bicycle salesman.

The "lush" seated himself, and asked: "Well, gentlemen, what is the subject under discussion?"

"We were just thinking about the cold weather, and saying that it must Anæmia means "want of blood," a deficiency in the red corpuscles of the blood. Its cause is found in want of sufficient food, dyspepsia, lack of exercise or breathing impure air. "Can you talk Indian, too, 'Doc'?" asked the "lush."

"I knew a few words belonging to this Canadian tribe of Maxeboshas, but I never gave a thorough study to any Indian language except that of the Sioux."

"Lo, the poor Indian," observed the book agent. "What did this man behind the tree say to you?"

"Well, he waited a few minutes and then he came out," said "Doc." "I saw that he had a fresh haunch of venison strung over his shoulder, and I decided to have some of it. I went up to him, and asked him the way to the river and the camp. He pretended not to understand, but I knew better. He shook his head and started to go away and I dropped my rifle and grabbed him, but I didn't want to have any shooting. I didn't want a dead Indian. I wanted a live one, who could show me the way back to Gen. Foster's hunting lodge. First, I wrenched the gun out of his hands, and then we went at it. He was a giant in stature and very strong."

"There's nothing personal in this, is there?" asked the "lush."

"Certainly not," said the lightning dentist, laughing. "Doc" Horne chuckled, and the large book agent smiled in a conservative manner, as if he feared to compromise his professional dignity.

The bicycle young man was puzzled. He did not see why the laugh came in, so he settled back in his chair and tried to think it out. The task was long and difficult, for he said but a few words during the remainder of the evening.

"I don't think there is much suffering, now that the weather has moderated," said the "lush."

"I hope not," said "Doc" Horne. "It's a terrible thing to be cold and hungry for days at a time. I can tell you that. If any of you gentlemen ever go through what I did you'll appreciate that, too."

"How's that, 'Doc'?" asked the "lush."

"I thought I had told you of my experience in the winters of '67 and '68, when I was moose hunting with Gen. F. Ester in Canada. No? Well, we had a party of gentlemen from New York and Philadelphia with us. The weather was bitterly cold, but we were living in the General's hunting lodge and we managed to keep comfortable. One day I was out with a party, and we were up on the Sessikoochee River."

"What's the name, 'Doc'?" asked the lightning dentist.

"The Sessikoochee—Indian name, you know. It means 'lofty pines.' I had two New York gentlemen with me, and we were tracking a moose—had been on the trail for several hours. I crossed the river on the ice to take up what seemed to be a new trail, and I got separated from my two friends. I suppose I was intent on following this trail, and that's why I paid so little attention to the weather. The first thing I knew the snow began to fall, and I discovered that the sky was overcast, with every indication of a blizzard. I started back along the trail, but in ten minutes the air was filled with blinding snow and the wind was blowing a perfect hurricane among the trees. Of course it was impossible to see far in any direction, but I kept on, and thought I was going toward the river. I knew if I struck the river I could find the house all right. Darkness came on—I had no idea it was so late—and the wind came from the northwest and cut me to the very bone. I walked and walked and walked, but I didn't come to the river, and then I realized that probably I had been walking away from it all the time. Of course my inclination was to sit down and rest, but I knew I didn't dare to do that or I'd freeze to death."

"It must have been awful," said the bicycle young man.

"Well, it wasn't any pleasure excursion. Fortunately I found a hollow tree where I could coil myself. I got in there and wrapped my fur coat around me, and managed to keep fairly warm until morning. By the time the wind had gone down and the cold was something intense. If I hadn't been so hardy and athletic I suppose I never would have lived through it. I got out, took my bearings from the sun, and started on a run to find the river. I had to run to keep from freezing. Of course I still carried my rifle, and I also had a hunting knife, but I didn't have any matches to start a fire with. About 10 o'clock that morning I shot a rabbit, but of course I couldn't cook it, so I had to content myself with drinking a little of the blood."

The bicycle young man gasped and shivered, which led "Doc" to say: "You would have been glad to get it. You should think it would be hard work to run in the snow," said the lightning dentist.

"Not if you had snowshoes," said "Doc," with an amused smile.

"Oh, I didn't know you had snowshoes."

"I didn't have any when I started, but I made a rough pair out of some long twigs knotted together with a kind of wiry grass that grows up there. With this pair of shoes I could make four miles an hour across the snow. I kept at it nearly all day, only stopped to rest twice, if I remember correctly, but I was off in my calculations, for I didn't find the river. It might have been a mile or it might have been fifteen miles away—I didn't know. When it began to get dark again, I admit that I was a little frightened. The only thing that kept me warm all day was my running, and, of course, by this time, I was more or less tired. Well, sir, it was a funny thing. I had cut through a little ravine and was starting up the other side, when I saw an Indian trapper, in a fur suit, jump behind a on him that I had learned in wrestling, and I landed him in the snow. I got on top of him, and, drawing my knife, I pointed at his throat and said: 'Now, will you obey me?' He nodded that he would, and so I let him up. I knew that these Indians always carried matches or flints, because they were in the habit of cooking food out in the forest. I kept this fellow covered with my knife and made him build a fire and cook me some venison, which I ate with some enjoyment, you may be sure. By this time the moon was up. I emptied his gun, and gave it back to him, and then I told him to lead me to the camp. He struck off through the forest, and I followed him. Well, sir, we traveled all night and about 9 o'clock next morning reached the lodge. Yes, sir, all the eastern papers had me dead, but that was one time I fooled 'em. I learned after I got back that the thermometer had registered 40 below."

"What became of the two men who started out with you?" asked the lightning dentist.

"Oh, they got back all right by following the river. A funny thing about that experience. The Indian remained at our lodge a couple of days and became very much attached to me. Afterward, when I went up there, he acted as guide for our party."

"Doc" ceased talking, and the "lush" gave one look at the lightning dentist, as if to indicate that he was helpless with admiration.

"The doctor appears to be a man who has had remarkable experiences," said the book agent, later in the evening when "Doc" had gone to his room.

"You don't half know him yet," said the "lush." "He's been a capitalist, a Government scout, a circus tumbler and a steamboat pilot."

"And an actor," added the lightning dentist.

"And an opera singer."

"And a stage driver."

"And an author."

Try, Try Again

For hiccoughs, a small piece of ice. Or, a lump of sugar wet with vinegar.

For the beginning of a felon, wrapping cotton around the finger, wet in camphor gum dissolved in alcohol.

For a burn, wetting cloths in one small teaspoonful of soda and milk, of equal parts hot water and a solution of vinegar, followed by olive oil dressing.

For choking, raising the right arm high.

For an abscess, a linseed poultice.

For torpid liver, eating a lemon, before breakfast, for a week.

Or drinking the juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water before breakfast.

For insomnia, rubbing the flesh, at night, briskly with a flesh brush.

For scalds or burns, baking soda.

Money For the Siberian Railroad.

In regard to the appropriations made for carrying on the great Siberian Railway, the report of the Russian Minister of Finance says: The budget for 1897 assigns 65,000,000 rubles for the continuation of this work. Thus, since the commencement of the railway, one-half of the sum requisite for this stupendous undertaking has already been assigned. From the state of progress one may expect that in 1898, or at any rate in 1899, the Siberian Railway will reach the Amoor from both ends, and, united by a service of fast steamers along this river, will form a direct line of steam communication across the whole of Siberia to the Pacific Coast.

BETTER SUGAR MAKING.

SOME CONSERVATIVE WORDS BY A CAREFUL OBSERVER.

The Essentials Requisite to Secure a Paying Crop of Sugar Beets—The Necessary Conditions For Success From the Manufacturing Side.

The profitable production of beet sugar in this country is a much discussed topic at the present time, says Samuel Johnson in The Detroit Free Press. Those who claim to see in this prospective industry a measure of relief for the general agricultural depression are earnest and active in their advocacy of state and national bounties to encourage capitalists to invest in the plant and fixtures needed in the process of manufacture. It is urged with great emphasis that such action, too, would be of most decided benefit to the farmers (who live near enough the factory so that they can deliver their beets at reasonable cost) who might engage in the growing of the crop and ease up somewhat the overproduction of the staples which has reduced prices below the line of profitable production. A factory with an equipment first class and up to death turns aside and whose first-born escape unscathed while the children of others perish. The chosen people are the healthy people. Nine-tenths of the deaths among children are due to the ill-health of the mothers during the period preceding motherhood. Every woman owes it to herself, her husband and her children to keep herself healthy in a womanly way. She should thoroughly understand her own physical make-up. She should realize the importance of keeping the organs of womanhood healthy and vigorous. She can only do this by taking proper care of herself and using the proper remedy for weakness or disease of those organs.

The best remedy for weakness or disease of the organs peculiar to women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is truly wonderful in its effects on the female organism. It allays inflammation, soothes pain and restores health and vigor. Get it at the drugist's and take no substitute. Your health and your children's health depend upon it.

"Since I wrote you we have had a baby girl born to us," writes W. R. Malcolm, of Knobel, Clay Co., Ark. "My wife took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also your 'Favorite Prescription' all during the expectant period and until confinement, and she had no trouble to mention. A stouter, healthier child was never born. Our child will be one year of age the 8th inst. and she has not been sick a day. Has not had so much as the colic."

Every woman in America should own a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In its 1,008 pages she will find plain talks about all sorts of ailments. These talks are made plainer by copious illustrations. About 90 pages are devoted to woman's diseases and weaknesses. There are suggestions for home-treatment. This book has already gone into more than a million homes. The original price was $1.50. Now an edition in paper covers is being distributed FREE. Send 31 one-cent stamps—this skin-dipping and mailing only—to World's Dispensary Medical Association Buffalo, N.Y. If a copy bound in fine cloth is desired, send 50 stamps.

DRESSES OF SPRING.

WORN IN CAIRO'S SUNSHINE—HERE SHORTLY.

Light and Airy Frills Flourish in the East, Where There is No Dampness to Interfere and the Tailor-Made Girl is Very Rarely Seen.

(Special Correspondence.)

Cairo, Egypt (Special).—The natives are coming out in their summer clothes. The suits of smallish children are quite often coffee-colored and skin-fitting. These are thought to unite the merits of convenience and economy. More beautiful weather could not be imagined. The sun always shines, there is always a little breeze astir, and a drive or a bicycle spin to the Gulzch gardens or to the pyramids of Heliopolis is always charming. In the evening there may be a garden party, with a snake-charmer or a conjurer to give the necessary touch of "local color" to the entertainment. At a recent function of this sort hundreds of colored lanterns of fantastic shapes furnished the illumination. The scene of the fête was a rose garden shaded by lebbek trees, olive, feathery bamboos and palms. The dusky Arab, for whose tricks the dubious light was favorable, did none of the wonderful things attributed to eastern fakirs, but his rabbits and chickens, his little wooden "debble man" and the rest of his "business," made his sleight of hand amusing enough to people already well entertained.

Gown of Sun Plaitings.

A young English girl, who had drawn her garden chair under a pink lantern was easiest to please, a state of mind not unusual, probably, with a new gown, made with the "sun-plaitings" that promise to be so plenty this spring. Sun plaitings are nothing more than fine accordion plaitings, but they are very pretty under a pink lantern when laid in cobwebby white veiling about the figure of a pretty girl. The white skirt they composed looked narrow, almost scant; although it was really very full. The bodice of the dress was a blouse of the same veiling laid in the same folds, but woven with interstices for the running in of rows of yellow ribbon. The sleeves had triangular caps of white silk edged with yellow, the draped belt white chiffon, with a thick garland of roses starting on the left shoulder, and then coming down over the front to the waist. This dress was low cut, and was sleeveless, except for half handkerchiefs of lace falling from the wreaths of roses. The prettiest evening wraps I have seen have been long fichus of chiffon or mousseline, trimmed with lace ruffles, and arranged not to cross in front, but to be caught under the sash and fall over the skirt draperies.

ELLEN OSBORN.

THE NEW SPRING WRAPS.

Accordion Plaiting Is to Figure Largely in the Make-Up of the Capes.

The new spring wraps are not displayed in all their manifold varieties as yet, but there are enough in sight to establish the fact that accordion plaiting is to figure largely in their make-up. The most dressy little capes, or pelerines, which is a more suitable name, since they shape in at the waist, are a succession of accordion-plaited frills of chiffon, edged possibly with a row of black satin or velvet baby ribbon. These form the entire portion over the arms, and the main part of the garment is of accordion-plaited green and black changeable silk, or of velvet or moire silk. There are all sorts and shapes in this little wrap, so that every figure can be suited, and it would seem from one glance at the new models that any sort of material, and any combination of materials, is quite permissible here. One rather unique arrangement is a wrap of ecru linen in rather a coarse open and heavy quality, checked all over with jet embroidery and lined with black taffeta, and the sleeve portion is of black lace and pinked taffeta silk frills of petunia and black.

The length of spring wraps can be anything you desire between the point of the shoulder and the waist line. Black and white lace combined form some of the dressiest capes, and there is usually a mixture of jet, and sometimes a touch of color. Two novel garments shown in the illustration are a combination of bolero and cape, and velvet moire, chiffon and jet are the materials employed. The jacket is a theatre wrap in broadened gray silk with cuffs and an odd collar of black with an edging of silver cord and rhinestone embroidery.

Spring jackets are as varied as the wraps and come in three different lengths, with both high and low collars, so it is impossible to decide yet which will be the leading style. They are made of ladies' cloth, serge and melton, in both dark and light shades, and the pale tint of yellow, ecru, lined with some delicate shade of satin is considered very elegant. The Russian style of coat has a place on the list, and the French jackets display quite a little decoration besides buttons and stitching.

THE NEW SHIRT WAIST.

More Elaborate Than Ever—New and Pretty Material.

The filmy summer shirt waists are now receiving their perennial welcome. And it is a more enthusiastic welcome than ever before. The shirt waists to be worn by the summer girls of '95 are well deserving all the admiration they are than in other years, and are made with more care. The materials used are more effective. Many odd little touches in the way of frills and groupings of tucks are introduced, and incidentally they are more expensive. The new shirt waists show the only large sleeves of the season.

Those which are demanding the highest prices are made of transparent fabrics. They are so sheer that the bodice or beneath them shows through effectively. Linen is much in favor in these transparent shirt waists. It is always in the soft fawn color, but

JUST "TELL THEM I'M DEAD."

And Jenkins Trowned the Office Boy for Doing So.

"Did you hear about Jenkins and his office boy?" asked De Smith of a friend as they were going to lunch the other day.

"No, I didn't hear," replied the friend. "What about 'em?"

"Oh, Jenkins just kicked him all over the office and has been in mortal fear ever since that the boy would carry out a threat to have him arrested," explained De Smith.

"Why, what was he kicking his office boy for?" asked the friend.

"Well, the boy was one of the stupid kind, you see, and he had no sense of humor," went on De Smith. "On the day Jenkins did the kicking he had been particularly busy and had been a good deal bothered by people who came in to ask questions of him and wanted to stop and talk. Jenkins was trying to get his correspondence cleared up and it made him kind of hot to be interrupted so many times. He stood it a long while and then gathered up his paper and sneaked away with a stenographer into a back room."

"I'm going to get out of here, Johnnie," he said to the office boy when the place was finally clear of callers. "If any more people come, I don't want to see 'em."

"What shall I tell 'em?" asked Johnnie.

"Oh, tell them anything," said Jenkins, impatiently. "Tell them I'm dead," he shouted, as he slammed the door.

"Well, Johnnie took him at his word," continued De Smith. "He wasn't a brilliant office boy at all. He was new in the office, and he thought Jenkins meant just what he said. Jenkins hadn't been out of the room three minutes, when in walked a lady whom Johnnie had never seen before, and asked if Mr. Jenkins was in."

"Nope, he ain't here any more," answered Johnnie.

"Isn't there any more?" repeated the lady with surprise. "Why, where is he?"

"He's dead," answered Johnnie carelessly.

"Dead!" shrieked the lady piteously.

"Yes ma'am, dead," repeated Johnnie coolly. "Died this morning."

"Oh, mercy," sobbed the woman, as she grabbed the back of a chair, and Jenkins, who was coming back to the room to get a communication he had forgotten when he went out first, got date in all particulars would probably cost not much short of $400,000 to $500,000, and is not an easy matter to interest men who have money in such enterprises and to such an amount when it is largely in the nature of an experiment. It is not to be expected that in such an emergency they will do less than to demand some bonus to insure them against possible losses. From this point of view and the chances they must take in such an investment this is not unreasonable. The benefits growing out of the establishment of two or three beet sugar factories in our state would only be general and incidental, so far as the great masses of farmers are concerned. Those who were near enough to grow and furnish the raw product to the factory at a fair compensation would be benefited directly. It certainly would be a good thing for them. But is it not an open, at least a debatable question, whether the direct influence upon the business of farming in the estate, away from the neighborhood of the factories, would be perceptible? It is claimed that a plant cannot be run profitably with less than the product of 3000 acres, and that contracts must be signed by the farmers to furnish that amount annually for five years at a certain price per ton. Suppose that 20,000 or 25,000 acres of our improved lands now devoted to the production of the cereal crops were taken to grow beets used in four or five factories; it would not be likely to have any material effect on prices. We devote annually in this state some 3,000,000 acres to producing wheat, corn and oats, nearly 2,000,000 acres to hay and 20,000 acres to potatoes and some 300,000 acres to other crops. We certainly will have to draw on our imagination if we can find any reason for believing that the devoting of 20,000 acres of our more than 8,000,000 acres of improved land to the production of a new crop is going to revolutionize our business and bring back the prosperity of former years to our almost discouraged farmers.

The essentials to getting the best quality of beets are, according to Farm and Home: First, proper climate,

Ran Into a Train.

Mr. Wm. Sexsmith, of Richmond, had an experience on Wednesday morning which he will remember for many a long day. Mr. Sexsmith hauls milk to the Rathbun Creamery, a short distance from Deseronto. While going down the hill on the boundary road, near the railway crossing, with a heavy load of milk on Wednesday morning the wagon tongue broke, the heavy rig came forward on the horses and they started to run away. About the time the accident occurred the mixed train was nearing the crossing and Mr. Sexsmith stuck to his seat in the vain hope of averting the horses into the ditch and averting a collision. The animals were goaded into madness by the pain inflicted by the whiffletrees which struck them at almost every move, and all attempts to hold them in check or turn them from their course proving unavailing, Mr. Sexsmith, when about twenty feet from the railway track, leaped with great difficulty from the platform of the wagon and escaped certain and instant death. The blinded and infuriated team dashed madly forward and collided with the third car of the train with terrific force. The side of the car was staved in,

Reason it Out.

Toronto Saturday Night relates the following incident: In a certain town that I could name a merchant tailor one day entered a book store and priced a certain book, "Two-fifty!" he exclaimed. "You just wait until I show you something." He crossed to his shop and came back with the same book, which he had secured on a bargain day at a Toronto departmental store for 82. Two weeks later the stationer entered the tailor shop to get a suit of clothes. He asked the price and secured a sample of cloth. A week later he entered the tailor shop in a new suit of clothes which he had secured in a Toronto departmental store and invited the tailor to become enthusiastic over the "bargain" he had secured. It requires only a very little reasoning power to argue out the results of such methods in any town in Ontario. But there are many who want to buy away from home and expect to retain the custom of their neighbors. They should be pulled up with a sharp jerk.

Wheels on The Walk.

Away back in July, 1893, the town council passed a by-law prohibiting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk. Like a great many by-laws it has been more honored in the breach than the observance, but at the last regular meeting the council decided to rigidly enforce the by-law and the Chief was instructed to that effect. Complaints were laid against Mayor Ward, J. J. Perry, Wm. Waller and Jas. Wilson that on the 6th of April they did unlawfully and in direct contravention to the by-law made and provided ride their bicycles on the sidewalk. The cases were heard before his worship, Jas. Daly, at the town hall on Monday and quite a crowd congregated to witness the proceedings. Jas. Wilson, who was represented by U. M. Wilson, pleaded not guilty to the charge and after the evidence was submitted the action against him was dismissed. J. J. Perry, while acknowledging that he was in the habit of riding his bicycle on the sidewalk was positive he had not done so on the 6th inst. It was established, however, that Mr. Perry had pushed his wheel on the sidewalk and as the by-law states that anyone riding, pushing or propelling a bicycle on the sidewalk is guilty of an infraction of the law the case against him was allowed to stand. Mayor Ward pleaded guilty to the heinous offence of riding his bicycle from Smith's corner to his residence on East street, a distance of fifty feet at the least calculation. Wm. Waller pleaded guilty to the charge preferred against him and the magistrate reserved decision on all three cases until next Monday.

A Good Description.

We clip the following from the Children's Corner in the Toronto Saturday Globe:

AT A CARNIVAL.

Dear Pharoas:

There was a children's carnival yesterday here and mama took my sister Helen and me down to it there were a lot of little boys and girls there they were skating, I didn't know them because they had pieces of cloth on their faces. It was like a face only it had eyes in it to see through. One was dressed like a flower girl, one was dressed like little bo-peep and one like little boy blue. one boy had a print dress on and a little old bonnet and his face was black. one boy had a crown on his head and was a king. two boys were soldiers one boy had a top hat on with white wool for hair. some of us were to little to skate but we had great fun. my dog dixie ran around on the ice too. he can sit up in the corner and say his prayers:

The Quinte Union.

The Quinte Association Foot Ball Union was formed at the Royal Hotel, Napanee, on Monday evening under bright and encouraging circumstances. The Union embraces all the association foot ball clubs in the district from Kingston to Trenton and its promoters confidently expect that it will engender an interest in foot ball that will render it one of the most popular games in this district. The representatives at the conference on Tuesday evening of the five clubs interested were:—Kingston, —E. C. Dean and H. C. Martin; Napanee, —E. Vanalstine, F. Grieve and M. B. McDonald; Deseronto, —Dr. Pulkinghorn, D. Edwards and P. Edwards; Pictou, —J. S. Williams, G. M. Hemiston; Sydenham, —C. W. Clement.

The utmost harmony prevailed and if the same spirit is manifested throughout the season the success of the union is assured. A constitution, rules of the union and regulations governing the competition for the silver cup were framed and adopted. In this connection much praise is due E. C. Dean, the genial sporting editor of The Whig, and H. C. Martin, of Kingston, who at a sacrifice of much time had framed a constitution, similar to those of the Rugby union, for the guidance and convenience of the conference. This forethought on their part lessened the labors and expedited the business of the evening very much.

It was decided that the five teams would play home and home matches for the cup, the team winning the greatest number of matches to be awarded the cup for one year. The silver cup referred to is presented to the union by Mr. C. L. Bass, of Kingston, a gentleman who has done more perhaps than any other to advance the interest of amateur sport in this district.

Officers were elected as follows:—Honorary-president E. Vanalstine, Napanee; Hon. Vice Pres.—Dr. Pulkinghorn, Deseronto; President, C. L. Bass, Kingston; Vice President, J. S. Williams, Pictou; Sec-Treas, H. C. Martin, Kingston; Executive Committee, The President, Vice President, Sec-Treas. and G. M. Hemiston, Pictou; C. W. Clement, Sydenham; D. Pulkinghorn, Deseronto; M. B. McDonald, Napanee.

The arranging of a schedule was left in the hands of the sub committee, viz: the president, vice-president and sec-treas., and will be announced next week. The first match will be played in the first week in May.

The Quinte union starts out auspiciously and has every prospect of a bright future—push it along.

Five Dollar Suits For Men!

The greatest array of $5 Suits ever got together in a town of this size. Not the usual $5 Suit though. Five dollars is about the size of ten dollars at present. So is the value of our Five Dollar Suits. The patterns are new; the best taste will find them all right; the qualities will surprise you pleasantly. Not the kind of surprise you get when "shopping by mail."

A Chance in Boys' Suits!

Some fifty odd suits that will fit boys between five and ten years. Odd sizes and prices; but all expensive goods. Some were $4, a few $5, the great bulk of them $3 to $3.60. We make them into three lots, at three special prices, for quick clearance—

$1.50, $2.00, $2.50.

If you have a boy to clothe don't miss these. The above prices average

Slightly over Half Value,

and the goods are the kind that everyone is glad to buy.

Another One!

Boys' 3-piece Tweed Suits, coat, vest, and short pants, sizes 28 to 32 breast measure, or to fit boys of from ten to fifteen years. These are fine patterns in Tweeds, good colors, and proper weights. They ranged from $3.75 to $5 a suit. They go on sale now at just to show that we have no rivals for clothing values.

Three Dollars a Suit,

Tailoring Snaps!

Ten Dollars for Full Suits!

Six Dollars for Bicycle Suits!

Is our price for your choice of five patterns of Tweeds, which may be seen at our door or on our counters. It is simply the greatest money-saving chance you were ever offered in the tailoring line. The Tweeds are $1 goods. Figure it out for yourself. And no one fits so perfectly as our Mr. Cathro.

In this connection the intelligence that Gladstone had taken to riding the wheel is denied. It is not right to expect too much of the Grand Old Man.

While on the subject of wheels what do you think of the trundling of horseless carriages on the sidewalk. Stopping the too prevalent practice of riding bicycles on the sidewalk is all proper and right but when a fond mother can't take her darling out on the sidewalk in a baby carriage without infringing the law it's getting past a joke.

The by-law prohibiting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk was passed in 1893. It is a safe bet that the only persons guiltless of breaking it are those who never engaged in the pastime of riding a wheel.

There are wheels within a wheel. The Mayor was up before the P. M. on Monday, charged with breaking one of the town's by laws. Perhaps the fact that the Mayor requested that he be summoned, if any others were, had something to do with his appearing in court.

The practice of committing old and indigent people to gaol, in order that the municipalities in which they reside can shirk the responsibility of maintaining them, goes merrily on. This christian-like custom is rapidly converting the gaols, in counties where no poor house has been established, into second-class hospitals and in many instances the wards are so lumbered up with poor and heart sick old men and women that proper provisions for the safekeeping of criminals is rendered difficult and escapes are becoming of more frequent occurrence in consequence.

Gaolers all over the province, Governor Vanluven among the number, are complaining against the practice, and we believe the matter will be brought before Parliament at an early date. The manner in which these poor people are committed is a crime against decency and our boasted nineteenth century civilization. A poor old man, (or woman, as the case may be) finds himself, often through no great fault of his own, unable to work and with no visible means of support. He applies to the municipality for aid. An officer of the municipality goes before a magistrate and swears out an indictment against him for vagrancy and the poor old victim of a rich municipality's munificence is committed to gaol for six months. At the conclusion of his sentence he is brought forth and re-committed, and so the farce goes on until death ends his probation. After a coroner's inquest has pronounced the dissolution of a final and genuine one the remains of one, who has seen better days, is placed in a cheap coffin and consigned to mother earth.

A commitment before the magistrate costs anywhere from $1 to $1.50. The municipalities in the county have to pay their share of the maintenance of the inmates of the gaol. As municipalities are all alike the only ones gaining any advantage by committing their poor to gaol are those who have a plethora of indigents. One of the objections raised against the erection of a poor house in Lennox & Addington was that a few of the larger municipalities, Napanee in particular, would reap the advantage, as they had the greatest number of indigent people. Admitting that, does not the same objection hold good under the present inhuman system.

The Ontario Government grants a certain sum towards the erection of a poor house in each county and supplements it with an annual grant towards its maintenance. Counties like Lennox & Addington which do not avail themselves of the government's liberality are not only maintaining their own poor but are contributing to the support of those in counties where poor houses are established.

The different municipalities in Lennox & Addington expend about $3,000 per year in the support of their poor, and this does not include the cost of those kept in gaol. In many counties where poor houses are established they have become almost self-sustaining. The average cost per head of the inmates of these institutions is placed at 90 cents per week including all expenses. Don't you think it would be an economical move to establish a poor house in Lennox?

The existence of a paper cigar factory, "somewhere" in America is again vouched for by the newspapers. The paper is steeped in the juice of the commonest tobaccos, cut to the shape, and imprinted with the veins of the tobacco leaf, and, strange to say, it thus acquires an excellent flavor, reminiscent of choice Havanas—a strong testimony to the virtues of paper. Like the sea-serpent, and a few other marvels, paper cigars crop up occasionally to relieve the tedium of everyday life.

J. N. Carter, mayor of Picton, who died on Friday of heart failure, was one of the most prominent business men in the town, retiring from business a few years ago with a competence. He was warden of the county of Prince Edward in 1885 and Mayor of Picton in 1892 and 1893 and again this year. For many years he was a member of the town and county councils. He was a prominent local politician and also a prominent member of the masonic order.

Mr. John Mandeville, of Wellington, is the owner of a very smart cow that from indications is a firm believer in keeping plenty of calves on the farm. On March 24th, she gave birth to three well formed heifer calves. They are eating out of a pail, growing fast and have every indication of living to maturity. The mother of the family is but a calf herself, being one year and nine months old. This is probably the first case of triplet calves in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and Mr. Mandeville is receiving many visitors from far and near to see his wonderful heifer.—Picton Times.
